Oregon Healthy Workforce Center (OHWC) is one of six national Total Worker Health® Centers of Excellence funded by The National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH).

Our Center is housed within the Oregon Institute of Occupational Health Sciences at Oregon Health & Science University (OHSU) in Portland, Oregon where over 70 scientists and research staff explore questions related to the prevention of injury and disease, and the promotion of health in the workforce.

OHWC's mission is to improve the well-being of workers through Total Worker Health research, dissemination, outreach, and education.

WHAT ARE THE NEXT STEPS?

- Initial meeting to better understand your organizations goals and needs, and which toolkit is the best fit
  - Identify department, committee, or individual to champion and implement program in your organization
  - Identify number of supervisors and employees in your organization to participate in the toolkit. OHWC will need to know this number to activate supervisor training licenses.
  - OHWC and OHSU Tech Transfer to email over a licensing contract for YourWorkpath program participation

DELIVERY OF PROGRAM

- OHWC to develop a 3 to 12-month program timeline for three check-ins
  - Delivery of URL link to access online supervisor training
  - Your organization will print materials needed for each toolkit component (i.e. user guide, behavior tracking cards, Team Effectiveness activities)

CHECKING IN

- Three 30-minute calls or in-person meetings for pre, mid and post-program check-in to complete 3 surveys
  - After program completion, we will schedule a time for a 30-min to 1-hour case study or testimonial interview (i.e. written, video or podcast)
  - Schedule date and time for an virtual focus group discussion. This can be on the same day as the case study and testimonial interview. Our team will develop a report based on the focus group and program surveys to share with your organization
  - OHWC will send by email, 2 tickets to our Spring or Fall Symposium in-person or webinar (up to $120 value) and code for 50% off computer-based training licensing valid for 2-years after participation in YourWorkpath program
